

Large Middle Class Vital To Democracy Says Conservative

Serves As A Good Check On Undesirable Aristocracy

EDUCATION NEEDED

Education Now Available To Many Previously Excluded From It

"A political constitution is not static, it either advances or recedes," stated the Honorable Oliver E. Simmonds, when opening his talk on "The Struggle for Power As a Conservative Sees It," yesterday afternoon at the People's Forum.

Mr. Simmonds drew an analogy between the governments of ancient Greece and Rome, and those of today. He said that we must not forget that history repeats itself, and the outcome of the struggle will depend on the lesson that the masses have learnt from previous experiences.

Not New Phase

"Twenty-six hundred years ago Greece passed through the same trouble as the world is experiencing today," said the speaker. He further pointed out that democracy in Greece and Rome deteriorated because of the belligerent attitude of one of the factions of the community towards the other.

In the days of Greece, the members of the city-state could gather around the Acropolis and hear their politicians speak. Today this is paralleled by wireless, which carries speeches to the most remote sections of the country.

Two Features Necessary

The features necessary for successful Democracy are two:—a strong middle class, and a good educational system. A strong middle class serves to prevent the abuses of aristocracy on the one hand, and to control the undesirable lower strata on the other.

Mr. Simmonds said that he noted that in a recent copy of "Time," an article intimating that the MacDonald government had been weakened. "The National Government in England is even more firmly entrenched in the

Club Will Discuss Finance Problems

Political Economy Club To Hear Crabtree And Lusher

What happens to the $450,000,000 which the Government of Canada annually expends and what can be done about it to relieve the taxpayer or make more equitable the sharing of this burden will be among the many problems that will be considered when the Political Economy Club holds its first meeting of the year next Thursday night.

The speakers for the occasion will be Herbert K. Crabtree and David Lusher, on the subject, "Public Finance in Canada; its position and outlook for the future." Crabtree is a commerce graduate, has had experience in Accountancy, and is now studying Law. Lusher is a former winner of the Allan Oliver Fellowship in Economics and Political Science and is now a graduate student in that department.

The fact that Canada has a far greater per capita debt burden than the U.S.A. constitutes one of the special problems of Public Finance. The executive of the club pointed out last night that since all students can "aspire" to be future taxpayers, affected by policies of Public Finance, a large turnout is expected at the meeting Thursday.

Mining Of Asbestos Subject Of Lecture

Latest developments in the mining of asbestos in the province of Quebec will come under review this afternoon when Mr. J. P. Wiser, Superintendent of the King Mine, will discuss "Caving System of Mining" at a meeting of the McGill Mining and Metallurgical Society. The meeting will take place at 5:00 o'clock in the lecture theatre of the Mining Building.

The recent commencement of underground mining in the Thetford mines and the somewhat novel methods which have been adopted there have been the subject of some discussion in the mining profession. Mr. Wiser who has taken an active part in these developments as in a position to outline the various steps which have been taken and the success which each has enjoyed.

Third year students are expected to show particular interest in this lecture inasmuch as the Summer Field trip in which they will participate next spring will probably carry them to the Thetford District.

McGill Graduate To Edit Student Service Journal

John G. McNaughton Receives Appointment To Geneva Post

(Special to McGill Daily)

GENEVA, January 20.—The appointment of a McGill graduate to the Geneva staff of International Student Service has just been announced. He is John G. McNaughton of Arts 31, a former Associate Editor of McGill Daily, and Vice-President of the Arts Undergraduate Society in 1929-30. He will be in charge of the editing of two publications: I.S.S. Annals, a quarterly symposium on international student problems; and More Facts, a monthly news sheet.

Following his Arts course at McGill, Mr. McNaughton spent two years at Columbia University, New York. During his first year he was enrolled as a student in the School of Journalism. In the second year, as holder of the Henry W. Sackett Graduate Scholarship in Journalism, he pursued a graduate course in the Faculty of Political Science. He holds the degrees of B. Lit. and A.M. from that university.

Dr. Walter Kotschnig, General Secretary of International Student Service, has been a frequent and popular visitor to McGill in recent years. Under his leadership, the organization has carried on a large program of work in the fields of cultural co-operation, self-help and work camp projects, university research and relief work. The I.S.S. is now devoting much of its time to help and guidance for German refugee students who have been forced to migrate to France, England and the United States.

Six Canadians attended the last general conference of I.S.S. which was held in the latter part of last July at Kloster Ettal, Bavaria, and Festung Lusensteig, Switzerland. These included Alma Howard, Huntley Redpath, Jacques Beaubien and William Hasler of McGill.

Final Plans Made For Soph Informal

R.V.C.-Arts '36 To Hold Joint Dance February Second

AFTER VARSITY GAME

Jack Bain's Seven Piece Orchestra Will Provide Music

Everything is now in readiness for the sophomore informal dance, sponsored jointly by the classes of R.V.C. and Arts '36, which is to be held in the Royal Victoria College on Friday, February 2nd.

Indicative of the efforts made by the committee to make the dance a success is the fact that it has been planned to coincide with the McGill-Varsity hockey game. This means that students who attend the game may complete their evening's entertainment by coming to the dance afterwards.

Novel Decorations

Worthy of note also is the fact that this is the first time that an Arts and an R.V.C. class have ever combined to hold a dance; the dance is just as much for the co-eds as for the men and so far they have not been showing any shyness in getting their men. A novel decoration scheme has been arranged and, as was the case at last year's Arts '36 dance, each couple will be expected to bring a red and white ribbon. Tables will be arranged around the dance floor in cabaret style and to ensure high quality of music the committee have secured Jack Bain and his orchestra for the occasion.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets, at one dollar per couple, are now on sale and may be procured from Bert Yates in the Union, Harry Grimdale in the Engineering building, Bill Gentleman in the Arts building, or from any member of the executive of the classes of R.V.C. and Arts '36.

Literature Society To Meet Wednesday

The English Literature Society will open the year by holding a meeting next Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The highlight of the meeting will be a talk by Miss L. Craig, a Graduate student. Her subject will be "The Communal Ballad in European Countries." The Union Grill Room has again been chosen as the venue of the gathering.

Graduates' Broadcast

A radiologue, sponsored by the Graduates' Society, will be delivered over Station C.K.A.C. this evening at 10.15.

Extensive Program Planned By S. C. M. To Honour Visitor

Miss Kinney Graduated From University Of Alberta

WELL-KNOWN ATHLETE

Regular Monthly Supper Of S. C. M. Will Be Held Wednesday

This week the S.C.M. at McGill is host to Miss Margaret Kinney, National Travelling Secretary of the Canadian Student Christian Movement, who is making a brief visit to Montreal after her recent stay at the Maritime University. Miss Kinney, a graduate of the University of Alberta, arrived in the city yesterday morning, and, although she is deluged with engagements, has expressed a desire to meet informally all students who may wish to talk over any questions in which her many contacts with Canadian Universities might be of assistance. She is staying at the R.V.C. and will be spending much of her time at Strathcona Hall.

Outstanding Athlete

One of the outstanding undergraduates at Alberta in her day Miss Kinney filled the highest position among the women on her campus—that commonly known as the "Senior Stick" in Western vernacular. She is an athlete of no mean importance and has the honor of being a member of the famous Edmonton Grads, for several years Women's World Basketball Champions. During Miss Kinney's stay, which ends Thursday, she will put in some time with the McGill Women's Basketball teams.

A varied program has been arranged for Miss Kinney's visit. She will lead a general meeting for Women students this afternoon at 4.15 in Strathcona Hall on topics relating to the S.C.M. among Women. All women students are invited to this meeting which will be of a general character so as to be of interest to a wide number. Tomorrow at six o'clock Miss "Marg" Kinney will speak at the Hamilton Conference Reunion Supper besides being guest of various other groups during the course of the day.

The regular monthly supper of the S.C.M. will be held on Wednesday at six o'clock sharp at which the visitor will again be the guest speaker. Mr. W. Hale, chairman of the Board of Advisors of the S.C.M. at McGill will attend the gathering. Supper will cost thirty cents. All are invited. Tickets for this event may be obtained at Strathcona Hall or from any member of the Cabinet.

Miss Kinney, or "Marg" as she is known in the West, has been travelling extensively during the last year among the Universities of Western and Eastern Canada and is closely in touch with the prevailing conditions in the different areas. The Executive feels that it is very fortunate to have Miss Kinney to open the activities for the second term at McGill.

Music Club Will Meet On Thursday

On Thursday afternoon, January 25th, at 4.00 o'clock, the R. V. C. Music Club will hold a meeting in the Common Room of R. V. C. Mr. Frank Hanson will be speaker; and his subject, "Brahms and His Work," will be illustrated by selections played by Mr. Hanson, and by gramophone records of several of the symphonies.

Mr. Hanson graduated from the Conservatorium not long ago, with his Licentiate, and the Bachelor of Music degrees, having won the Bronze Medal, and the Governor-General's Silver Medal for high standing. Since his graduation Mr. Hanson has pursued an active career of teaching and performance as organist at Trinity Memorial Church.

All interested are invited to attend.

Pit Continues Teas

During the second term the Pit will continue its regular afternoon teas. Each Monday special piano music will be supplied for those who wish to dance and today it will be furnished by Norman Jennison.

R. V. C. '36

The sum of five cents must be paid by each member of the class to cover the cost of printing the class picture in the annual. The money should be paid to Gertrude Cooke or Jean McGowan as soon as possible. All those desiring pictures will find a list and samples posted in the women's common room of the Arts Building.

The speaker will be Henry Morgan, B.A., President of the Montreal Board of Trade, and his subject is entitled, "Economy in Government Expenditure."

Labour Club Has Debate For First Activity Of Year

THE Labour Club will open its 1934 activities with a debate on Wednesday evening. The place of meeting is Strathcona Hall and the subject "Resolved that the C.C.F. can establish a co-operative commonwealth in Canada." The speakers will be M. Armstrong, who will uphold the affirmative, and Joseph Wallace.

Mr. Armstrong is the secretary of the Quebec Labour Party and also a member of the local C.C.F. executive and well-known as a speaker of note. He has spoken at many workingmen's meetings and economic discussions. Mr. Wallace is a graduate of St. Francois Xavier College of Antigonish, Nova Scotia. He was distinguished there as a strong debater, and on graduation went to Dalhousie University. Later he accepted the position as secretary of the Canadian Labour Defense League, which defended Tim Buck and other famous radicals.

New Arts Journal Announces Editors

Contributions Must Be In By First Of February

APPEARS IN MARCH

Subscription Drive To Start Soon — Macdonald In Charge

The final day on which contributions to the Arts Undergraduate Journal will be received, is rapidly approaching and the editors are urging all would-be contributors to hand in their work before February first. The drive for subscriptions will begin immediately. The price of one copy will be 25 cents.

John Macdonald, the business manager, is in charge of the subscriptions and under him are George Fall, for third and fourth years, H. Peck for second year and A. Anderson for first year. Gertrude Cooke will be in charge of R.V.C. subscriptions.

All Types In Demand

Although some contributions have been received to date, the number has not fulfilled the expectations of the editors. All types of literary work would be appreciated—short stories, poems, one-act plays and general articles. The need for a medium of literary productions has been apparent for the last few years and the editors believe that there is a great deal of good literary work being done by students of the University which should be published. The Journal is being published to fulfill this function. The contributions should be left in Bill Gentleman's Office.

The price of the new magazine has been set at a low figure so as to reach a large number of readers. It will be attractively bound in McGill colours. The magazine will contain about 50 pages and present a variety of stories, poems and articles. There will be articles by several professors, but in general, the magazine is to serve the student writers.

Hamilton Appointed

R. M. Hamilton has been added to the staff of the magazine in the capacity of Assistant Editor. The Editor-in-Chief is Alec Gordon and the Associate Editors are John Winston Kerr and Morton W. Bloomfield. The magazine is scheduled to make its appearance about the first of March. If there is sufficient interest, next year the magazine will be published semi-annually.

Meeting Tomorrow

Players' Club To Gather In Grill Room

A general meeting of the Players' Club will be held tomorrow at 5 o'clock in the Union Grill Room, in which detailed plans for the next production will be discussed. Several changes in the activities of the Club for the year will be outlined. A new Honorary President will be elected; a complete report on their recent production, "Rope," will be given; the name of the new play will be announced, and the choice of the new Director will be made public.

Members of the Club have been given special rates for the production of "The Goat Song" at the Imperial Theatre tomorrow and Wednesday, and the tickets will be on sale at the meeting.

Role Of Economist As Citizen And As Scientist Explained

Graduates' Broadcast Over CKAC Delivered By Professor Forsey

HAS POLITICAL DUTY

British Tradition Of Academic Freedom At McGill Commended

The dual purpose of an economist—that of being a scientist studying impartially and objectively the economic world, and that of being a citizen concerned with the justice or injustice of the social order—was outlined in a radio address Friday night by Eugene Forsey, M.A., Lecturer in Economics and Political Science at McGill University.

Speaking over CKAC, in a Graduate Broadcast on "The Function of the Economist," Professor Forsey commended the British tradition, prevailing at the university, of freely permitting the professor to express his views on public matters. The part played by professors in public activities was also outlined.

Scientific Economist

The first role of the economist is that of being a technical expert. "As such it is not his business to denounce Communism or praise capitalism or vice versa, nor to say what kind of economic system is ethically most desirable. It is his business to explain how different economic systems—capitalism, Communism or any others—work, and how efficiently each succeeds in doing what the society in question intends it to do. Whether a particular social objective is admirable or detestable is to the economist in his purely professional capacity—in the classroom, for example—a matter of complete indifference.

"He has, however, another, and in times like these perhaps more urgent duty. One of the most unfortunate intellectual by-products of industrial depression is the flood of well-intentioned economic nonsense which it lets loose upon the world; false, quackeries and plausible fallacies of every conceivable kind. Most of these have not even the charm of novelty.

Dispelling Errors

"The technocracy craze, for instance, was little more than a superb, though incomplete, collection of those ancient economic errors which in prosperous times rest in deserved obscurity but with every fresh depression burst forth into new life and vigour. They are not, I may add, the exclusive property of any one political party.

Aside from the pursuit of truth and the dispelling of error, the economist has still a further task—that of being a citizen. "As a citizen he is, and has the same right as anyone else to state his views and act on them. He is entitled, for instance, to join a political party, to work for it as actively as conscientious performance of his professional work will allow, and, especially, to do what he can to ensure that the economic policies it adopts are effective means of reaching the goal the party has set itself.

British Tradition

"It is one of the glories of British universities that they recognize frankly this duty of the university teacher to play his part as a citizen. The list of British "dons" who in recent years have taken an active share in party politics is a formidable one.

"McGill in this respect as in others has followed the British tradition. Dr. MacMillan has served on two Royal Commissions, and in 1930 accepted office in the Liberal Government and stood for Parliament. Professor MacDermot has just obtained leave of absence to do special work for the League of Nations Society. Professor Scott last summer attended the Liberal Summer School. Several members of the McGill staff were among the

Trashy Novels Are Degrading Influence

Rev. Lawrence Whelan Addresses Newman Club

The Rev. Lawrence Whelan, Vice-Chancellor of the Arch-Diocese of Montreal was the guest speaker at the second January meeting of the Newman Club held yesterday morning in Congress Hall. The meeting followed the celebration of Mass in the Lady's Chapel of St. Patrick's Church and the topic of the address was the "Student's Part in Catholic Action."

Stressing the marked influence books have on the conduct of those who read them, the speaker launched an attack on those modern novelists who are "waxing fat on the moral degradation of our youth." Nothing is fatter than the claim of the modernist who states that "To the pure all things are pure." The trend of the times is to forget that the actual principles of life lie in the mind. Modern ideas are that one must keep up with the latest in books, regardless of the philosophy of life contained in them. Everybody ought to be broad-minded; a man owes it to himself to see both sides of the case, is the claim, and especially since a book never harms a pure-minded person.

The speaker denied this and pointed out that since books were first printed

Hasler addressed a political gathering here and quoted Walter Winchell in his denunciation of present German policies.

Alarm Clock Comes Out On Wednesday

New Issue Will Be On Sale At Five Cents

Next Wednesday the "Alarm Clock" will make its appearance for the first time since the holidays. Featuring notes on the men who run the country whose names appear on the front cover under the caption "Canada's Economic Cabinet" this issue is claimed to be the most enlightening to date.

Of all the needs of the country the editors of the "Alarm Clock" feel that a good five-cent magazine is one of the most imperative and therefore have reduced the price of their magazine to this price to fill the need. Subscribers for the season will receive a booklet written by Norman Thomas the Socialist Candidate for the American presidency in the 1932 elections entitled "An Analysis of the NRA" to atone for this reduction in price.

Articles describing the Future of Medicine, Commission on Unemployment, and the Lumbermen's Strike are main items in the issue while a discussion on religion is held by Marcus and Gustafson. Poetry and News notes and a description of the Canadian Art Exhibit will complete the issue.

Student Tickets

W. F. Shephard, the local impresario for Josef Hofmann, pianist, who will give a recital here tonight at the Imperial Theatre, announces that students can obtain a special reduction of ten percent on all tickets. These tickets can be secured at Lindsay's. Identification by means of the handbook or athletic tickets will be sufficient.

McGill Men Star In Canadian Indoor Tennis Finals

Shields-Watt Combination Defeats Aydelotte-Murray

Take Canadian Indoor Title By Three Straight Sets

LAIRD WATT

Ace tennis stylist who showed his wares by taking the Canadian doubles title bracketed with Shields.

IN the singles play of the Dominion Indoor Tennis Meet, Laird Watt had to be content with only semi-final elimination by George Lott but in the doubles events the prospective Canadian Davis Cupper stopped short at nothing. Saturday afternoon, partnered with Frank Shields, he won the Dominion indoor doubles championship from Bill Aydelotte and Bob Murray in straight sets, 6-3, 11-9, 6-4. Shields, first ranking American player, defeated a fellow-countryman, George Lott, in the singles final without much difficulty 6-1, 6-0, 9-7.

The play of the two McGill stars, Murray and Watt, during the past week was brilliant. Watt made a brilliant bid in the semi-finals of the singles play against Lott, ranked tenth in the U.S., when he forced two of the three sets into deuce games before succumbing 8-6, 6-3, 11-9. The tall youngster fought for every point during the entire struggle, grimly battling back during the first two sets to get on even terms and just failing to force the match into extra sets when his service broke down in the nineteenth game of the third set.

Murray brilliant. Murray failed to impress in the singles, dropping out in the early rounds when he proved unable to cope with the steady play of Charlie Leslie, a former McGill captain and intercollegiate titlist. On Saturday, however, he was at the top of his form and at times even outshone the spectacular Shields with his brilliant all-round play. His partner, Aydelotte, was finding difficulty in controlling his service and it was purely on the power of Murray's play that they carried along against the well-rounded efforts of Shields and Watt.

Play in this event seemed to have the old campus tinge as Shields was wearied after his efforts in the singles play while Aydelotte was only sporadically brilliant so that Murray and Watt practically fought it out between them. The winners galloped through the first set when Aydelotte dropped his service twice but the second set resulted in a ding-dong struggle with Murray's sharp placements counting time after time. Aydelotte failed to carry his service in the nineteenth game and the Shields-Watt duo galloped through to win the set. The champions surged through a disorganized opposition for four straight games in the final set but Murray's brilliant efforts encouraged his third partner and they fought back to within one game at 5-4 only to have Shields blast through the final game on his own service for the match and the championship.

Cagers Drop Game To Smart Nationale Quintette By 37-29

Patrick Brothers Account For Twenty-One Of Winners' Points

INTERMEDIATES WIN

McGILL'S big Redmen and Nationales remodelled senior basketball squad stood toe to toe Saturday night and fought point for point in a thrill-packed contest that finally ended with the Nats on the long end of a close 37 to 29 score. Ed Gronau's men came from behind to win and deserved their victory, the most prominent factors of which were the Patrick brothers, who starred last year for Victoria's Dominion championship team. The Patrick boys combined for 21 of their team's 37 points, and played a consistently brilliant game, to rank them with the best of the city's fine basketball talent.

Despite the presence of the Patrick brothers, and the absence of George Faulkner and Eddie Silverman, important cogs in the Red machine, McGill nearly turned the table on the Nationales. Only a second half rally saved the day for the city league team, for the McGill men were leading 20-11 when the players went off for the rest session.

Patrick's Lead Nationale

In the first seven minutes of the second half the Nationales led by the two Patricks and Melville swept all opposition aside and scored seventeen points to wrest the lead from the Red team. Small and Gourmley then tied up the game for McGill, and with but a minute and a half to go the score was deadlocked at 20-20. The big guns of the Nats then got going again, and Griffin and the Patricks scored eight points to make the final score thirty-seven to twenty-nine.

The game was productive of some of the best basketball that has been seen this season. McGill, during the first half, presented a tight defence, and a flashy forward trio led by Don Small who scored ten points in this period alone. Nationales were content to bide their time in the first session and kept the McGill system. The second half was a vastly different story from the first, and for a short time it looked as though the McGill men were in rout, but able handling which saw Gourmley rushed into the fray for the first time of the evening, stemmed the tide for a time but the powerful Nationale offensive was not to be denied, and they finally emerged on top.

Small Plays Well

All the McGill players showed up to advantage Saturday night with Small, Lewin and Young setting the pace. Lewin, whose role of scorer was changed to that of playmaker on Saturday, fed passes to Small whose sniping was deadly. The defense were in the best of form in the first two periods, but could not cope with the speed of the Nationale forwards in the second half. The Patricks, Lynn and Murray, were the pick of the city league team, though all the players showed that they have a combination that will trouble any team in the city. Mel Rice, a member of last year's intercollegiate squad, showed up well during the short time he was on the floor. The teams:

McGill (20): Lewin (4), Small (13), young (3), Bowes (2), Ross (2), Gourmley (8).
Nationale (37): L. Patrick (10), M. Patrick (11), Griffin (4), Melville (8), Taft (4), Goddard, Schuler, Rice.
In a preliminary game the McGill seconds downed Sun Life 27-12 in an intermediate "A" league contest. McGill held the upper hand for all the game, and at half time led 12-2. Sun Life then put on an offensive that tied the score, before the Red squad stemmed the drive. From then on McGill forced the issue and scored 15 points without any reply from Sun Life.

Levites and Scrivier Star

Levites and Scrivier led the McGill attack, and were ably supported by the other members of the team. Buckland and Gilles were best for Sun Life.

The teams:
McGill Intermediates (27): Conklin (5), Levites (10), Scrivier (6), Condit (4), Corrigan (2), Greenblatt, McMorran, Boyd, Jeffries.
Sun Life Intermediates (12): Buckland (4), Rodman (2), Fisk (2), Gilles (2), Whittingham (2), McNair, Clarke, Johnson, Stockwell, Campbell.

Championship Meet to be held in the Salle d'Armes of the Y.M.H.A., Mount Royal Ave., on Feb. 8th, may be obtained from Manager Rivard in the Fencing Room of the Montreal High School on Wednesday and Friday at 5.00 p.m. Tickets sell at 25c.

Canadien Player Leads Scorers In Senior Ice Loop

THE race for solo honours in the Senior group has evolved into a bitter struggle centred around Hugh Farquharson, Jean Bourcier of Verdun Maple Leafs and Roger Gaudette of the Flying Frenchmen. Kenny Farmers marksmanship has placed him next to Farquharson and Bourcier. Gaudette gained two points in yesterday's scuffle and swept ahead of his two opponents. It must be remembered that Farquharson and Farmer gained their counters in less games than either of the others.

Westmount High Wins First Inter School Ski Meet

WESTMOUNT High School won the first inter-school ski meet, held under the auspices of the Red Birds' Ski Club, at Shawbridge over the weekend, gaining 15 points which gave them a lead of two points over Westhill High who came second. Lower Canada College and Montreal High followed the leaders in the standing.

Pat Christie, who won the cross country race, and Dick Ball who captured the downhill event, were mainly responsible for the Westmount victory. Moore of Westhill led in the slalom, and 'Punch' Bot of Montreal High gained the honours in the jumping.

Renold Takes Slalom

McGill men fared well in the open events which formed part of the Red Birds' program. Peter Renold won the slalom race followed by Bill Houghton. Bill Houghton also placed fourth in the cross country. Other McGill men who showed up to advantage were Taft and Felner. Bill Thompson, coach of the McGill winter outing club, won the cross country race.

Jeff Goode, versatile McGill runner, turned his talent to the snowshoes on Saturday afternoon, and competing in the M.A.A.A. snowshoe meet, defeated a fast field in both the half mile and the mile events. Goode beat Lord of the M.A.A.A. by yards in the half mile, and Wade of the same club, by 60 yards in the mile.

McGill C & D Entry Take On Montreal West Team Tonight

Intermediates Leading Loop With No Losses To Date

JUNIORS & ST. FRANCOIS

McGILL'S intermediate puckchasers' record in the City and District loop stands favourable comparison with their brothers' in the Senior loop, the seconds having yet to lose a game. Manager Carl Joedike's Intermediates take on stern opposition tonight in facing the Montreal West outfit in the Arena, game to start at 10 o'clock.

Juniors vs. St. Francois
Tom Merrigan's J.A.H.A. loop having settled down to the serious business of playing hockey, the teams are now starting on the drive that leads to the playoffs. Tonight, McGill cross sticks with St. Francois in the first game of the weekly doubleheader, while the undefeated Canadiens meet the undefeated Victorias in the night cap.

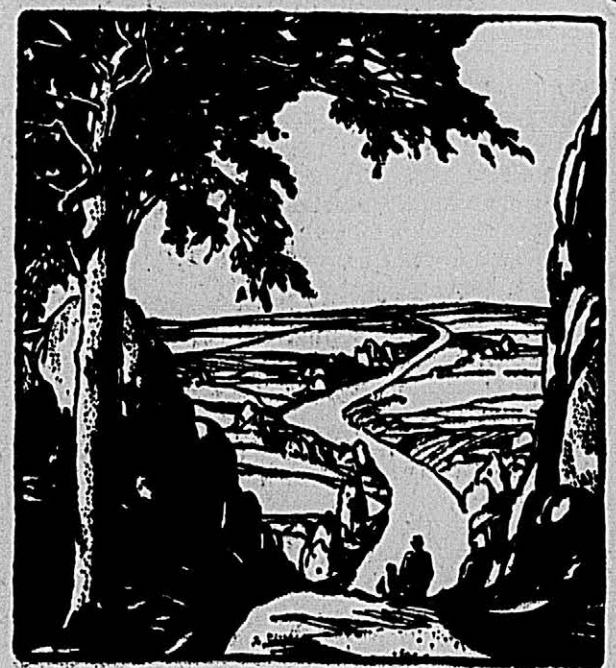

McGill and St. Francois have played once before this season, but this game was thrown out when the schedule was re-arranged. Though St. Francois won the game six to three, the play was very even, and tonight McGill will be out to turn the tables. The Red squad has been improving with every game, and though unsuccessful in winning as yet, they have held such strong opposition as Victorias and Canadiens to ties. McGill is leading the Saints by two points in the league standing, as only two of the French team's games have counted in the standing, and both of these were losses. Stew Ebbitt's boys on the other hand have been credited with four games played, two losses and two ties.

Vice Lead

The Canadian-Victoria game should be productive of thrill-packed hockey. The Vics are leading the pack at present, and have yet to drop a game. Canadiens, too, are a powerful squad, and like the Vics, are undefeated. The first game is scheduled to start at eight o'clock.

Hockey Equipment

All students are requested to notice that a sale of hockey equipment will take place next Tuesday afternoon, from 12-5, at the Athletic Office. Sticks, skates, boots, pads, gloves, etc., will all be offered at bargain prices.

Beginning Of Recovery Seen In Argentina

From The Royal Bank Bulletin

(From The Royal Bank Bulletin)

Throughout Latin America a fairly general improvement in business has been initiated during 1933. Although these countries are adversely affected by the continued shrinkage in world trade, yet in internal economy improved stability has been achieved and their financial condition is increasingly satisfactory. As an example of this new trend, one may examine the situation in Argentina, realizing on the one hand that the improvement is much more pronounced in that country, and on the other that those favorable conditions which permitted this improvement in Argentina are also facilitating the inception of an upward movement in most of the other countries of Latin America.

Ever since the British Trade Fair in Argentina, negotiations have been in progress between that country on the one hand, and Great Britain and other countries on the other, that have resulted in a series of commercial treaties decidedly favorable to Argentina. In April, a reciprocal trade agreement with Great Britain was signed. A supplementary schedule of reduced Argentine duties was approved in September. Great Britain agreed not to restrict imports of chilled beef below the quantities specified in the Ottawa agreements, and Argentina agreed to maintain a steady consumption of British coal. The supplementary tariff schedule reduced tariffs on a large number of articles mainly imported from Great Britain. It is true that later these reductions were applied to the goods of all foreign countries, but the prime advantage remains with Great Britain, since the products mentioned are those with which British manufacturers are accustomed to supply the Argentine market. Trade agreements have also been signed with Italy and Chile and negotiations are under way for a treaty with the United States.

Impediments Removed
As a second step essential to remove impediments in the channels of trade, it was necessary to arrange for the transfer to foreigners of the amounts due them, but withheld as a device for supporting the value of Argentine exchange. These amounts which consisted of the proceeds from payments for goods bought by Argentina, the earnings of foreign companies operating within the country and the interest on certain Argentine bonds held abroad were deposited in Argentine banks and were known as "blocked deposits." Included in the Anglo-Argentine agreement was an arrangement for the release of these blocked deposits by the issue of twenty-year four per cent bonds. In October, subscriptions for these bonds were received totalling £13,526,000. Since the original agreement provided that Great Britain should receive most-favored-nation treatment, funds belonging to other foreign nationals could be released only by similar arrangements. France, Switzerland, Italy, Holland and Belgium (including Luxembourg) have concluded similar agreements to release their blocked deposits. A slightly different agreement was concluded with interests from the United States. They are to receive two per cent fifteen-year treasury notes, convertible at holder's option into four per cent twenty-year dollar bonds.

Early in November the government announced the immediate conversion of the 6 and 5½ per cent internal bonds into an issue of 5 per cent bonds. Holders have the option of receiving a cash redemption or the new issue plus a bonus of one per cent. To the end of November only a few small holders demanded cash. A somewhat similar conversion plan for mortgage bank cedulas reducing the interest from 6 to 5 per cent, has recently been announced. The resultant reduction in interest rates on the internal debt should effect a substantial saving in expenditures during 1934. The 1934 budget, approved prior to this conversion, estimated the total income at 796 million paper pesos of which approximately 30 per cent was allotted to interest on the debt. Expenditure was then estimated at 795,890,000 paper pesos. It is worthy of note, moreover, that Argentina, in contrast with most other Latin American countries, has maintained the interest payments on her external government debt.

Trade Balance Decline
Perhaps the most unfavorable factor in the present Argentine situation is the continued decline in her trade balance. Total foreign trade for the first nine months of 1933 was valued at 670 million gold pesos, a reduction of 9 per cent in comparison with the corresponding months of the previous year. Imports increased by 5 per cent and exports declined by 17 per cent. The reduction in exports was due both to lower prices and to reduced shipments of grain, particularly maize.

In view of the early improvement in internal business conditions and in finances, it may be of interest to examine the price level in Argentina in some detail. According to the index of wholesale prices compiled by the Banco de la Nación, which is based upon 1926 as 100, the index of prices in Argentina was 75.5 in 1913, 96.4 in 1929 and it declined to a low point, 84.3 in May 1933; by August it had risen to 85.9. There are but few countries in the world where the fluctuation in price level has been held within such narrow bounds. The present depreciation of the paper peso with relation to its value in 1928 when it was relatively stable, amounts to approximately 40 per cent. Other countries have had relatively large depreciation in the gold value of their money but their price levels have not responded proportionately.

Improved Crops
The heavy rains during September and October greatly improved the general crop situation. The second estimate of the area sown to small grains and linseed shows an increase in the acreage of all grains except oats, which shows no change. According to the Department of Agriculture prospects for wheat are about average in spite of slight traces of rust and those for forage grains are good. Uneven germination and rapid weed growth have adversely affected linseed and many fields are being used for pasturage. Extensive preparations have been made to fight locusts, and little damage has so far been reported. Ploughing and planting of maize are in progress under favorable weather conditions; germination of early sown maize has been even and good. The total area is expected to exceed that of last year, as abandoned fields of other grains are being replanted to maize.

Exportation of grain has been on a small scale during the present year. Sales to Great Britain and Europe have been low and Brazil has been an important market for Argentine wheat this season. The exportable surpluses of old crop wheat and maize are above those of last year; that of linseed is lower. Prices of all grains are unprofitable and groups of farmers in various sections are reported to be in favour of suspension of harvesting. The Banco de la Nación will grant loans for the harvesting of the present crops of wheat, linseed, barley, oats and rye and on grains in storage in the interior.

Seek Rendezvous For Winter Days

Madison, Wis.—Does approaching winter have any effect on the amatory actions of the university students? Authorities, in their usual authoritative manner, say "yes" or "no." It makes them go into hibernation but does not cause them to cease activities. On the contrary, they no longer leave the campus to find the old ox road.

Questioned as to the location of this legendary road to Wisconsin, several students brought forth various replies.

Favor Library Stacks
One well-known campus celebrity says that there is no question about it—the only place for winter activities is the third floor in the library among the stacks. There, he says, one finds the most conducive atmosphere—perfect peace and quiet. Another of the favorite library spots is the foreign language room, or in fact, any room above the first floor.

Another campus philanderer, when questioned, insisted that the cement bowl back of Bascom hall is the best substitute for the road. If that is in use, the davenport in the girls' rooming house of sorority will do just as well in winter, while in summer the ski slide is most appropriate.

With the approach of frosty weather,

Montreal Orchestra Plays Tchaikovsky

Sunday Concert Attracts Many To His Majesty's

Emotional artists such as Tchaikovsky can never help but revel in a medium such as the symphony orchestra. Its tonal flexibility, its sensitive response to every mood and feeling are ideally adapted to the demands of such a self-searching mind as this Russian composer's. His 5th Symphony in E minor, played yesterday afternoon at the Montreal Orchestra's weekly concert is very illustrative of this baring of sentiment. Filled with very melodic thematic material, the whole work is grandly conceived and executed, a point which the orchestra did not allow to go amiss.

The musicians under Mr. Douglas Clarke responded to the score with a performance that signified careful preparation. A worthy richness of symphonic tone plus neat playing imparted to the music a satisfying quality that made light of such a slight lapse as the occasional sour note of the brass. Familiarity with the music on the orchestra's part—and not the superficial variety that merely recognizes melodies—has produced clearer, more logical playing, which may not be thorough as yet, but which improves notably with each concert. The restraint with which the first and last movements were played, the sweetness of the second, and the comparative freedom of the third movements all characterize this attitude.

"Bird"—Modern Suite
If modern music complexes with exultant utilitarian movements and tries to be entirely the tone portrait, then Respighi's orchestral suite "The Birds" is thoroughly up to date, even though its melodic material has been borrowed from other times and composers. As the title tells, this suite is an oral illustration of birds; three of the movements are of the usual standard, reminding us of "typical" themes representative of the dove, the nightingale, and the cuckoo, well orchestrated of course, and on the whole very well played. It was in the fourth and most programmatic of the pictures that the orchestra and the music won its laurels. Here, unmistakably, was the poultry farm with all its hubbub of potential table delicacies, and what is more, the bringing to light of another and commoner edible, the prescription to singers for sweeter voices. And the tale being told in music, we all enjoyed it immensely and laughed.

The concert wound up with Vaughan Williams' "Fantasia on a Theme by Tallis" and the finale of Bach's Suite No. 6, orchestrated by Sir Henry Wood, and played twice. Carefully written music in both cases was met with a sincere effort on the part of the performers, and but for some lagging coordination in the last item, the music was ably presented.

everyone moves to the fireside. "Dates" meet in the library to study and then meander to the fair damsel's rooming house to search for a chair, davenport, or even some stairs.

It must be obvious now that there is a need for originality. Some new spot where romance may hold sway must be found, all spots available before now being taken up, although cupid manages to keep in condition with his usual practice, for between classes in front of Bascom or "a few minutes" for a cigarette while studying is plenty of time for the youthful swain to murmur what used to be used by grandfather on his knees.

founders of the League for Social Reconstruction.

Dr. Leacock's Work

"In public activities of this kind, members of the department of economics are naturally likely to be especially prominent. As far back as 1909 Dr. Leacock toured the Empire on behalf of Imperial Federation, and in 1911 took the stump for the Conservative party. A year or so ago he published two books advocating closer Empire economic co-operation as a means to recovery. Last spring he outlined the monetary policy which Mr. Roosevelt seems now to be adopting, and gave to the Canadian Political Science Association a stimulating analysis of the theory of depressions. He has also, of course, made frequent appearances in the press and on the platform as a biting critic of Communism.

"Dr. Hemmeon in 1930 spoke over the radio in the election campaign, and he and Professor Culliton have represented the railwaymen on conciliation hearts of the people today, than at the election time," he stated.

Democracy has brought about great benefits to the people, he said, and went on to elucidate. It has given the masses of the people the right to vote, and what is more, a secret ballot. It has made higher education available to people who would not have had such an opportunity otherwise. Insurance for illness, and unemployment has protected the wage-earners; old-age pensions have given a measure of security to old age. Probably the most important contribution to democracy, the speaker pointed out, is the assurance that the government will pursue a policy of international peace.

The National Government is not a one-way government. It sees each day new problems, and considers them on their merits. In each case, it puts the nation first.

boards. Dr. Day has represented the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at an Empire Conference of Chambers of Commerce; and recent kaleidoscopic changes in monetary policy have given him almost no rest from explaining to the public, in speech and writing, with incomparable lucidity exactly what has happened and why.

Tribute Paid

"My own work in the past year has included forty public lectures or speeches last winter, a political convention, a church conference, and two non-partisan summer schools last summer, a pamphlet now in the press, and a chapter or so contributed to a forthcoming book on Canadian economics. Last but not least, Mr. Goldenberg is rapidly making himself indispensable to the public as an authority on the NRA and on international debts.

"Some of the public activities of members of the department have of course aroused adverse criticism and even demands for repressive measures. But fortunately for the university and for Canada we have had in Sir Arthur Currie a Principal who understood and valued academic freedom and was ready to defend it. The clearest, most complete, and certainly the most strongly worded defence of academic freedom I have ever heard I heard in Sir Arthur's office from his own lips only a few weeks before his last illness. I should like to think that what I have said tonight is in some sense a tribute to his memory."
